

Movie Time at the Library

A Friday Routine

By Classroom 7

We go to the library each Friday to watch a movie.

Classroom 7 get your coats.
If you need help, come to the rug.

Find a partner and then line up at the blue line.

Once we get to the stairs, we line up against the wall. A teacher will count us.

We hold onto the black railing with one hand when going up and down the stairs.

After coming down the stairs, we again find our partners so that we can be safe.

It's important when we are walking, to stay behind the teacher.

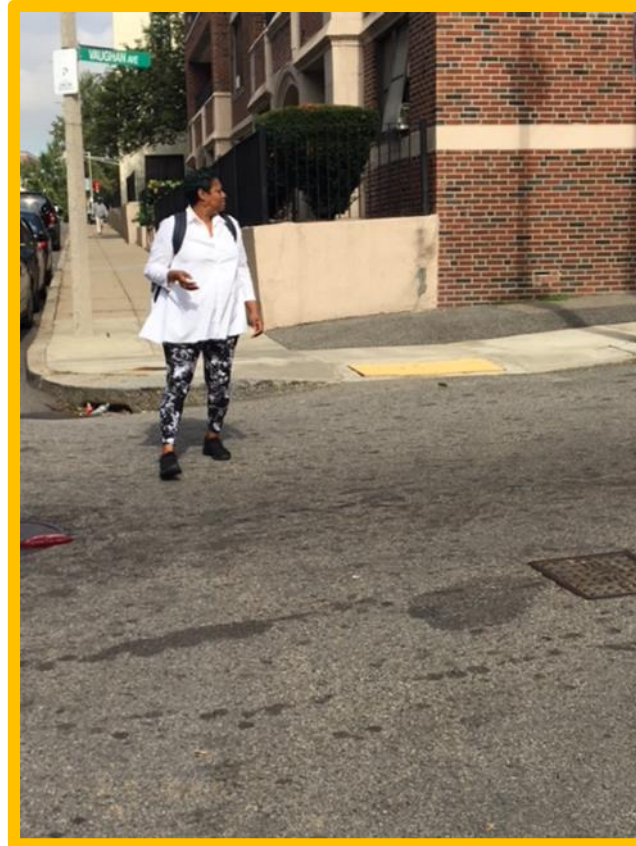

To be safe, we stay within the line on the sidewalk.

Sometimes there are obstacles that we need to get around. Follow the teacher. When she moves, we move.

To be safe, we wait on the sidewalk while the teacher checks for cars. To be safe, we walk on and off the sidewalk where the yellow ramp is.

The button
at the intersections
helps us to cross the street safely.

When the hand is red, we wait.
When it turns
white, we walk.

To be safe, we walk
in the crosswalk.

When walking,
we should look
for cars coming
in and out of driveways.

And that is how we walk safely to the Grove Hall
Library.

To go into
the library,
sometimes
we press the automatic
door
buttons.

One library expectation is to be very quiet inside so that we do not disturb anyone.

We quietly walk
into the Children's Room.

Ms. Angela greets us
as we come in.

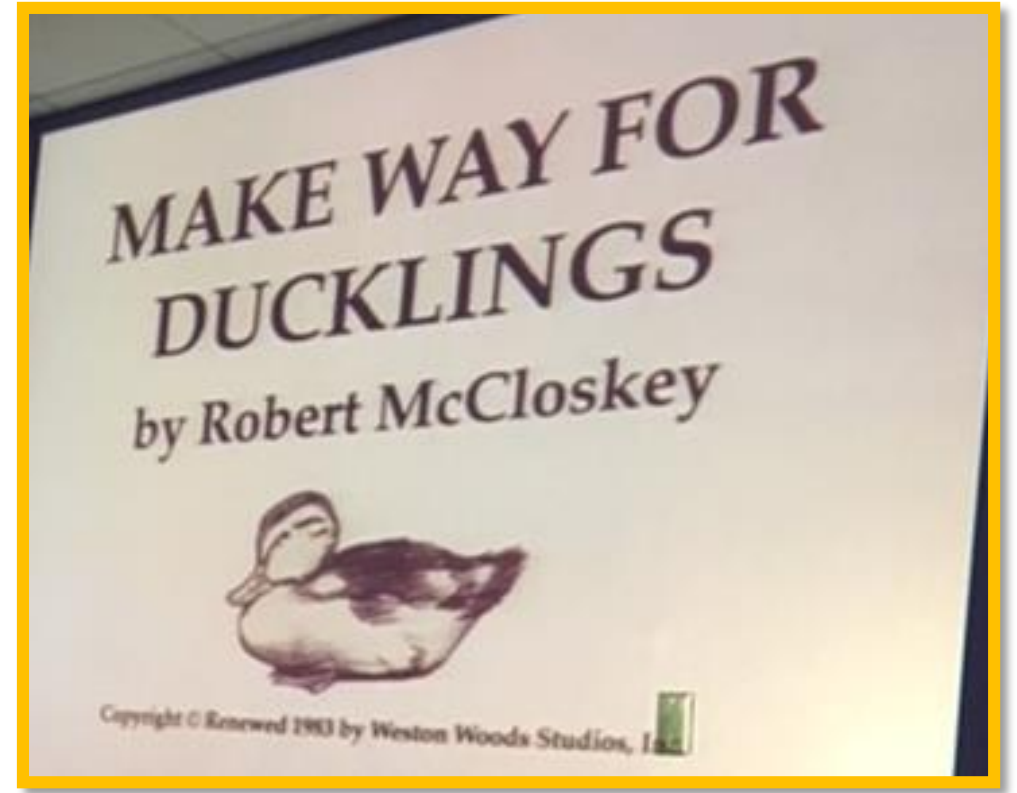

When we enter the movie room, we put our coats on the table and sit on the rug.

Ms. Angela uses a projector to show the movie on the wall.

During our first trip to the library, we watched Make Way for Ducklings by Robert McCloskey.

In the story, the ducks lined up just like we did. They followed behind Mrs. Mallard like we follow behind our teacher.

To be safe, the police officer crossed the duck family across the street. The officer made sure the traffic was stopped just like our teacher does for us.

See you next Friday!
